1. DESCRIPTION OF THE GROUP

The Market Intelligence Group belongs to the Contracts and Procurement Unit within F4E's Commercial Department.

The Market Intelligence Group is responsible, inter alia, to feed the decision making process of the Agency with comprehensive information about the supply chain. It carries out ad-hoc market analysis on specific technical fields of interest to our procurement activities. The results serve to fine tune F4E's procurement strategy. This information is collected and organized in a database which serves to provide the Agency a better insight about the market structure.

The Market Intelligence team is also responsible for ensuring a proper IP management within F4E contracts as well as for carrying out Technology Transfer activities. The above referred database collects information related to the intellectual property items resulting from F4E contracting activities. This information is important for contract management and serves later to facilitate technology transfer activities.

2. DESCRIPTION OF TASKS

The trainee will be required to provide support to the Business Intelligence and the Intellectual Property Officers within the Group. It will carry out the following tasks:

- Create different reports and presentations with data-driven insights about all business questions that can be answered with available data;
- Propose and create new kinds of analytics with disposable data;
- Data mining, data processing, data analysis and data visualization;
- Research, track and analyse commercial information within a given technical field to support F4E's business intelligence activities;
- Arrange for the input of data resulting from our contractual activities in a structured way;
- Interface with F4E's IT staff members to further implement our working tools.
